Special Sound ar

Dear Family Member,

Your student is learning about the special sound ar in words. There are two sounds ar can make /ar/ and /er/. Please help them find the ar in each bolded word and circle it. Then, they should read the sentences and write the word with ar under the column that fits the ar sound in the word. For example, with the word carnival in the first sentence. They would circle the ar and listen to what ar sound it is making in the word. If it sounds like the /ar/ in carpool, they would write carnival under /ar/ carpool. If it sounds like /er/ in scholar, they would write carnival under /er/ scholar. Write each word neatly in cursive.

	/ar/ carpool	/er/ scholar
Example : The carnival had colorful rides and games, and we really enjoyed our time there!	carnival

Fluency Assessment

Read aloud the text below.

The Carnival

Juan and Julia, two close friends, were excited as they spotted the big carnival scene in their town. The carnival came for one week each year, bringing thrilling rides, vibrant games, and delicious treats.

When Juan and Julia arrived at the carnival, an enchanting array of rides greeted them.

Juan said excitedly, "Let's go!"

Although Julia didn't love big, fast rides, she did not want to show any fear. So, she paused briefly before she softly responded, "Okay."

They began their carnival adventure on some smaller rides, which Julia liked more. As she felt more comfortable, they gradually worked their way up to bigger and faster rides. By the end of the day, they had conquered all the rides, filling the air with laughter and joy.

After they rode the rides, they treated themselves to cotton candy and popcorn and shared a big sandwich. As they ate, they watched people juggle, dance, and sing. Their applause rang loudly through the carnival grounds.

It was getting dark outside, signaling the end of the day. Juan and Julia were going to go home; however, upon spotting an enticing array of games, they couldn't resist. They wanted to play a few games before the carnival closed for the night. Julia tried her luck at throwing darts at balloons while Juan squirted water at rubber ducks. They both took turns throwing bean bags into holes and basketballs into nets. They were eager to score as many points as possible to win as many prizes as possible.

Finally, it was time for Juan and Julia to leave. They walked out of the carnival carrying stuffed animals, toys, and sweets they had won from the games. They already couldn't wait to visit the carnival next year!
